Hi Steve, I never talked directly to the owner but the hydroseed subcontractor did. They said he was very friendly and didn't mind they stopped on his parking lot to mix their seed. He told them it was fine to leave extra seed mix in the grassy area next to the parking lot. That was when we found out it was not City property and moved our excavator from there to the side of the road by the church for pickup. No equipment was ever cleaned (tracks) on his property so not sure where that came from. At the start of the project, all equipment was delivered directly to Mr. (b) (6) property. The only piece that was staged on Mr. Downhams property was the compactor before it was picked up and the excavator for a few hours before we moved it. Sorry for the hassle.

Evan

Evan, I believe you talked with the owner of the property...

With Regards, Steve

Subject: Follow-up to Expressed concerns related to remediation work on Wilcox Oil Company Superfund Site

Good Day (b) (6), Thank you for taking the time to talk with Todd Downham and I on October 25, 2017. During this meeting we talked about potential future expectation for your property as well as the continuation of work Todd and I will be doing in relation to the Wilcox Oil Company Superfund Site.

During this meeting you indicated to us that you noted heavy equipment and haulers using your property as a loading area during remediation work being completed at the far end of the site. In addition, you noted that they were cleaning the tracks of the heavy equipment. I am sending this email as a follow-up to our conversation and the phone message left on Thursday,

October 26, 2017.

Based on conversations with our field team, this was a miscommunication with the rental company. Loading of the equipment was done at the end of work, and the soils removed from the tracks was backfill used to fill the excavation area and was not contaminated soil. In addition, I understand that the hydroseeding company also may have left seed mix. I believe, that when the project manager was made aware, he was able to make contact with you and discuss these actions. We apologize for the inconvenience, and will make sure that all companies working in relationship with the Wilcox Oil Company Superfund Site understand that your property is private property and should not be utilized.

Please feel free to contact me if you have further questions. My contact information is listed below. Also, if you wish to contact the project manager for this work, his name is Steve Mason and his number is 214-665-2276. He is also copied on this email.

Again, we apologize for these actions.

Sincerely, Katrina

Katrina Higgins-Coltrain
